The purpose of the Career Direct® instrument is self-discovery. The underlying principle behind this report is that people who match their work with their NATURAL personalities, interests, skills/abilities and values generally enjoy and succeed in their work. Your feedback in the four areas provides valuable information for career planning and/or job transition.

The report is organized into four major areas: Personality, Vocational Interests, Skills and Abilities, and Values. Each of these areas provides key insights into your unique makeup.

Personality – The report begins with the personality section, in which you will find an analysis of your six main personality factors and 16 personality sub-factors identifying the way you naturally are motivated to act in different situations. The six personality factors are:

- Compliant/Dominant
- Introverted/Extroverted
- Detached/Compassionate
- Unstructured/Conscientious
- Cautious/Adventurous
- Conventional/Innovative

Vocational Interests – In this section you will see a ranking of your level of interest in 36 different work activity groups, 18 different school subjects, and 22 different occupation groups.

Skills and Abilities – This section ranks your natural skills in 14 areas and identifies your strongest skills and abilities.

Values – The final area of the assessment looks at three categories of personal values. Here, you will see your identified Work Environment Values, Work Expectation Values, and overall Life Values.

The report compiles the results of all of the sections and identifies career occupations. Each occupation is linked to thousands of job listings on O*NET Online.

We want to thank the creators and business partners that have developed this curriculum. We are excited about the career opportunities that will be discovered for this age group of young adults. We pray that this experience will help unite families to discover the best use of their son’s and daughter’s skills and abilities, in order to make better college course decisions and ultimately move into their ideal vocation.
